DECREES

Art. 1 – Object of the Call

A selection is called, based on qualifications and possible interview, for n. 1 grant for the duration of 1 year for carrying out research activities on: “Development of advanced algorithms and implementation of simulations of photometric and spectroscopic data of galaxies and AGNs, aimed at the optimal exploitation of the first data release of the Euclid mission”.

The project will focus on the development and finalization of algorithms for creating simulated catalogs using empirical methods, with particular emphasis on extending scaling relations for galaxies and AGNs to high-redshift regimes and across different bands of the electromagnetic spectrum, from X-rays to radio. The project will concentrate on producing photometric catalogs and spectra to be used in end-to-end simulations for Euclid instruments, in order to assess their performance within key scientific projects of the mission. Additionally, the simulations will be used to interpret and exploit data from the first internal release (March 2025) of the Euclid mission, in galaxy and AGN evolution projects.

This selection procedure is contextually aimed:

- to offer the opportunity of professional growth to young PhD holders, or to research fellows, or fix-term employees who are willing to get engaged in both national or international research environments in the perspective of turnover and mobility, which means to employ specific professional competences for fix-term projects and/or research activities;
